Wyman case.

Wyman imported some guns, upon which the collector here assessed the duty imposed by the McKinley law. Wyman claimed the dudes charged were too high, and the case was referred to the board of appraisers at New York, who sustained the appraisers here.

The firm then put a plea before the circuit court in this tity for a decision. The point was raised that the court had no jurisdiction in the case, and Judge Thayor to-day decided that this court has jurisdiction and has lesued an order upon the New York board of appraisers to submit papers and reports to the court here.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

There never yet has been any election that the Bangor Commercial did not have with their party on this question a great deal to say about Republicans who were going to vote the Democratic ticket It always thinks that the election of the Democratic candidate would best subserve sons it has been making in the past few days are merely repetitions of what it has said before in 1889 when the present Democratic candidate ran against Mayor Bragg the Commercial said

A good many people in Bangor believe that the city has run in one rut long enough, and that it is time to elect some body who will try to do something for the city's interests

It will thus be seen that this is nothing new in its campaign against Mr Beal No. matter who the Republicans might have nominated we should have seen all of its old stereotyped phrases traited out just as usual The Democratic candidate has ele been before the people several times as a persistent seeker after this office and has INSURANCE. why the result of to-day s election should be any different

VOTE EARLY.

The Republicans can aid the rallying committees very materially by voting early. Go to the polls in the forenoon if possible The importance of this sugges- . tion will be readily appreciated by the active Republicans

A REPUDIATED ASSERTION.

The remarks of the Bangor Commercial that the election of the Democratic candidate for Mayor would have a more helpful effect upon the building of the new railroad than would the election of Mr Beat, MASON only goes to show how that paper seeks to turn a great business proposition into a mere vote catching scheme. The statement is reductionally false and the sincere friends of the project openly repudiate the unwarranted and injudicious course of the C imercial Anyone with a particle of common sense would appreciate the folly of lojecting political considerations into a juestion the success of which depends upon the hearty cooperation of men of all THE WHIG is as earnestly in favor of the project as the Commercial and the editor has had repeated interviews with gentlemen who were chiefly instrumental in working it up, and every one of them declares that the course of the Comnercial is unauthorized and the worst posable policy that could be pursued. Mr. H. N. FAIRBANKS, - - General Agent. Beat is just as much interested in tiple question as any man in the city and if elected will do quite as much to promote its success as the renegade Republican who heads the Democratic ticket.

THE QUESTION FOR REPUBLICANS.

To-day the Republicans will determine whether the city affairs shall be turned SIX over to the Democrats. If they do their duty and bring out a full vote there is no question as to the result. ## HELD TO BE INSANE. Buffalo Cirl Acquitted of Murder

Sadle McMullen caused the death of one child, Elm May Connors, and attempted to kill another, Della Brown, at Akron Coct. 31 last, by pushing them from a high bridge over Mucder creek.

Unrequited love for the father of the Connors child led her to the crime, the man she loved being about to marry another.

Sadle McMullen caused the death of one ciprocley as the only practical solution of existing difficulties short of a change of flag. It is manifest, not merely that unrestricted trade has come to stay, but that, on spite of a temporary check, it is here to win."

The Mail (Independent) says: "A point which strikes home at almost the flat glance at the returns is the stance that the connors child led her to the crime, the point which strikes home at almost the flat glance at the returns is the stance that the connors child led her to the crime, the point which strikes home at almost the stance that the connors child led her to the crime, the connors c

THE RESULT OF THE ELECTION.

What Canadian Papers Have to Say on the Subject.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7. Commenting on the result of the elections, the Empire (Conservative) says: "It is now possible, with some approach to accuracy, though many returns are still indefinite and to-complete, to gauge the extent of the great victory won by the Conservative party on Thursday. It will be found, beyond doubt, when the final results are counted up, that the ministray, in having a majority up, that the ministay, in having a majority of about 40, is sustained by the general voice of the country, and looks to no par-ticular section for exclusive support. The opposition cause is lost.

Buffalo, N. Y.. March 7. The juty in the case of the 17-year-old girl, Sarde McMullen, charged with murder, to-dry brought in a verdict of not guilty.

One day last week a big moose wandered falls, which, however, required that the out from the woods at North Henderson into an open spot where he was soon discovered by some of the residents. The snow being several feet deep there and The gospel service in the county jail, quite soft the animal was unable to make his escape, but remained floundering about in a somewhat amusing manner. As it was close time no attempt was made to shoot the venturesome animal, and he was allowed to remain unscathed. The news that a moose was on his uppers in the clearing spread, and quite a number of people in that vicinity went to see the snow bound capture. Spmeone, humorously inclined, suggested; that they build a fence around him, and keep him until next fall, and then make a target of him. The plan, however, will probably not be carried out. It is supposed that the moose was driven by some hunter from one of the moose yards in the depth of the woods out into the clearing, as the animal would been taken to the repair shops at Boston not otherwise have been likely to have left where it will receive the careful attention of the workmen. The car will be put in the well trodden yards where the moose congregate in the winter, to flounder

PRIMITIVE PEOPLE

METHODS THEY PURSUED IN COOK-ING THEIR FOODS

A Symopsis of a Lecture by Pro Morse-The Antiquity of Cooking-Orighad Manner of Applying Heat to Meats

Professor Morse gave his second lecture on "Primitive People" at Academy hall, and spoke particularly of fireplaces and stoves. In opening he briefly reviewed his first lecture, making special reference to the fact that men and an mals adapt themselves to their surroundings. Thus dogs and cats in civilized homes eat corn and extined, while cows in Iceland will eat sait flah as a steady diet, though neither of these animals would eat such food in the ordinary natural state. natural state.

Proceeding to the subject in hand ofessor Morse cited the finding of baked cakes with the Egyptian mum mies as evidence of the antiquity of cooked food, and of the universal prim cooked food, and or the universal farmitive fashton among savage or primitive peoples of cooking food in vessels resting on three rounded stones, which man very earl) found out were better than four. This method was employed by the North American Indians, the Esquirers was the modern Frans, and even by manz, the modern Finns, and even the Irish in the Seventeenth century

Another method employed was the cooking of meats in baskets of water with hot stones. Some tribes of the North American Indians cooker corn, North American Indians cooker corn, grasshoppers, and perhaps other deluates by placing them in clay lined bask eta, with red hot coals, and shaking the baskets back and forth and blowing off the ashes and conders till the contents were done to what the Indians probably considered a turn.

Professor Morse describes the stoves of China and Japan and showed two patterns of what appeared to be earthen were portable stoves, about the size of bean nots. Other stoves are rough clay or brick affairs, with openings for wood and varying numbers of holes on top for the accommodation of cooking utensils and those have arrangements for the direct escape of the smoke out of doors.

EARLY METHODS OF GETTING FIRE. Some of these eastern stoves have shrines or symbols over the fireplaces to keep out eril spirits and in some of them a light is kept burming, or a little food or some other trifle placed by way of in voking the care of some good spirit over the food that is the cooked. the food that is to be cooked

In closing, the lecturer had something to say about primitive modes of creating and preserving fire, followed by some in ting experiments with crude appli The origin of fire is not known nor its first discoverer, but the discovermust have been followed by a tremendous sizide of advancement by the human race Probably fire was first used as a religious rite, and by many savage nations it has been worshiped as a god, after that it was probably used for cooking and then for other purposes

Some people never learned the art of making fire but took good care never to be without it Emin Pasha, whose rescue from the heart of Africa Stanley sought, vouches for wohdrous tales in that region to the effect that in some sections of Cen tral Africa bands of chimpanzees occa rrandi the mative lighted torches

Professor Morse illustrated three meth ods of starting fires—one by rubbing a piece of bamboo with a sharp edged piece or bamboo with a snarp edged stack, another by rubbing a stack in a groove on a piece of wood, and a third by means of a fire drill. None of these methods brings a direct blaze, but will produce a spark from which a fire may be brought by coaxing with tinder. The fire drill was the maget successful of the experiments on this succession, and was accompanied by considerable smoke, but no fire. The drill as a simple arrange ment of weed and cord, by which a stick is kept rapidly revolving on a piece of wood, and in a fraction of a minute creater which and graphs.
